

Christian Children's Fund

Sorie Kanu does not enjoy the pleasures of playing with toys, reading at night with electricity, eating more than one meal a day, receiving affordable health care or even drawing water from stand tap near his home. Living in a rural community in the north of Sierra Leone, Sorie and his mother depend on subsistent farming for their livelihood. His father is dead. At night he sleeps in a mud house roofed with thatch and dreams of a life with the basic necessities such as adequate food, good shelter, good roads, affordable education and health care. Sponsorship could make this dream a reality.
